Dear Friends,

Together with Amanda Lucas, executive director of Harding Hospital, we want to thank you for joining us this evening as we celebrate the work of our STAR Program and officially introduce our new Center for Psychiatry and Resilience. It is an honor to have with us as our special guests: Gov. and Mrs. DeWine and Tim Robinson, CEO of Nationwide Children’s Hospital. Our esteemed leaders from the university and medical center who are here tonight include Kristina M. Johnson, PhD, president of The Ohio State University and Andrew Thomas, MD, and Mark Larmore, the interim co-leaders of the Ohio State Wexner Medical Center. While this is certainly a distinguished group, we are equally excited to have each and every one of you with us. We know that we would not be here tonight without you, our generous donors.

We chose the mosaic motif for our invitation and for all of our communication pieces around the center because we feel it is an artform that shows the beauty that comes from putting seemingly different pieces together in artistic ways. It is a fitting paradigm for the processes of promoting recovery and resilience. We each need to “put the pieces together” in order to heal, and we need partners like you to help solve the challenges of our mental health system.

So, after the last 18 months of COVID-19 without a clear end in sight, it seems only fitting that we start to put the pieces together to build a stronger more resilient community. We are building a comprehensive Center for Psychiatry and Resilience that is already bringing together the very best minds to solve the toughest problems in mental health today: the problems of “deaths of despair” from addiction and suicide. Our center will focus on prevention and early intervention in the treatment of illnesses that lead to these tragic deaths. We will also conduct research on a statewide scale never before imagined to better understand the root causes of these disorders in order to develop new strategies to help patients and families.

Thank you again for your support tonight and special thanks to those of you who have supported us over many years. Together we are making a difference. Remember health is a unitary concept. There can be no health without mental health, and there can be no progress without innovation and research.

With Warm Regards and Gratitude,

In his nearly 25 years with Nationwide Children’s Hospital, Chief Executive Officer Tim Robinson has helped transform the hospital from an important regional children’s health care system into a preeminent academic medical center. Nationwide Children’s now appears annually on the U.S. News & World Report list of top 10 children’s hospitals, and it is one of the National Institutes of Health’s top funded freestanding pediatric research facilities. Mr. Robinson was a key leader as Nationwide Children’s completed the largest pediatric campus expansion in U.S. history in 2012, including opening a new 12-story main hospital tower and doubling campus space devoted to research. He is continuing to guide a $760 million, second-phase expansion, opening the country’s largest pediatric behavioral health clinical and research facility as its centerpiece. Under Mr. Robinson’s leadership, Partners For Kids, now one of the country’s oldest and largest pediatric accountable-care organizations, has grown from responsibility for 13,000 children to approximately 330,000 children. He has also been a driving force behind the Healthy Neighborhoods Healthy Families initiative, which has become a national model for health systems to improve housing, educational opportunities and public safety in their communities.
The 2021 STAR Award for Outstanding Contributions in the Fields of Trauma and Resilience

Gov. Mike DeWine and First Lady Fran DeWine

Mike DeWine, Ohio's 70th governor, has had a distinguished career in public service. He served as Greene County prosecuting attorney, state senator, U.S. congressman, lieutenant governor, U.S. senator and state attorney general before being elected Ohio's governor in 2018. He married his wife, Fran, while in college and they have been blessed with eight children and 24 grandchildren. Family is at the core of everything they do. While Gov. DeWine was Ohio's attorney general, his office provided funding to the Stress, Trauma And Resilience (STAR) Program at The Ohio State University so victims of crime could receive ongoing support and mental health treatment. As governor, DeWine signed an executive order creating the RecoveryOhio initiative to ensure that state agencies act aggressively to address substance use disorder and to invest in the health and well-being of Ohio’s citizens. For the youngest Ohioans, Gov. DeWine appointed a director of Children’s Initiatives and secured $675 million to provide resources to assist in student wellness and success in schools. First Lady Fran DeWine plays a pivotal role in the Ohio Governor's Imagination Library, which works to provide children with a free monthly book for the first five years of their lives.

Because of the generosity of Robert H. “Tad” & Anne K. “Nancy” Jeffrey and the Jeffrey family, the Jeffrey Post-Doctoral Fellowship was established in 2007 to advance the quality of mental health services delivered to children, adolescents and families facing the challenges of mental illness and awarded to leaders in the field like David Axelson, MD. Their dedication to caring for those in need of mental health care has saved lives and given hope to so many at Nationwide Children’s Hospital and Ohio State Wexner Medical Center. Dr. Axelson is chief of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health at Nationwide Children’s Hospital, chief of the Section of Psychiatry at Nationwide Children’s Hospital and the John W. Wolfe Endowed Chair in Pediatric Psychiatry.

Ohio State vs. Penn State Mental Health Awareness Game

Saturday, October 30, 2021 (Time TBD)
Ohio Stadium

For the first time in Ohio State history, an Ohio State football game will be devoted to mental health and suicide prevention awareness. It is our pleasure to announce that the October 30th OSU-Penn State Game will raise awareness around these important issues. The Ohio State University Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health and Harding Hospital are planning to host a tailgate before the game sponsored by CAS and chaired by VP Michael Dennis that will take place in the immediate vicinity of the stadium. Stay tuned for more details!
The Ohio State Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health and Harding Hospital would like to offer sincere thanks to the Shipyard Marketing Engineers for their generous contributions of time and resources toward the development of the creative platform for our Center for Psychiatry and Resilience.

Their team of talented professionals helped us to focus and communicate our ideas in an exciting and artistic way. Special thanks to Rick Milenthal, Dave Grzelak, Dave Sonderman and Dave Hogrefe for their leadership and support.

We are grateful for support from the WonderBus Music and Arts Festival as they leverage the power of live music to bring awareness and raise funds for critical mental health initiatives focused on Recovery and Resilience at The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health.

A portion of the festival proceeds are delivered each year to The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center. Elevation Group, CAS, The Shipyard and WonderBus festival fans, sponsors and featured artists are making a real and meaningful difference in our effort to be a leading voice in suicide prevention and treatment center for an increasing number of mental health cases.
We wish to recognize, honor and express deepest appreciation to Dr. Lee E. Shackelford for her generosity, dedication and commitment to establish the Dr. Lee E. Shackelford Endowed Chair in Psychiatry and Behavioral Health. As a graduate of the Ohio State College of Medicine, and extensive training in General Psychiatry and Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, Lee is professionally and personally committed to mental and behavioral health. Her yoga and meditation practice explores the benefits of both on people who have experienced trauma and helps them build resilience.

Lee is a philanthropist whose generous support was instrumental in establishing the STAR (Stress, Trauma And Resilience) Professorship in the department and has been influential in advancing scholarships, awards and programs across Ohio State including the College of Medicine, WOSU, Pelotonia, and Women & Philanthropy. Her volunteer leadership and advocacy knows no limit; from co-chair of this year’s Faces of Resilience event and membership on the STAR Leadership Development Committee to participation on the Harding Hospital Advisory Committee and NetCare Board, Lee is committed to this important work. As a new member of the Ohio State Foundation Board of Trustees, Lee plans to embrace the role and elevate mental health and wellness conversation to the highest level.

We are most grateful to Lee for her unwavering support and volunteer leadership!
We want to recognize and thank our first $1 million donor to the Center for Psychiatry and Resilience, George Kontogiannis. George is a philanthropist whose generosity has improved the lives of many people across central Ohio and beyond. He believes in the power of education and has funded numerous scholarships at Ohio University, the Ohio University Heritage College of Osteopathic Medicine, The Ohio State University, The Ohio State University Knowlton College of Architecture and The Ohio State University College of Medicine.

George has served on the Ohio State Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health’s Leadership Development Committee for many years as a passionate advocate for those suffering with mental illness and addiction. He challenges us to always aim high when it comes to providing the highest-quality programs and services for our patients. He has been a generous supporter of Talbot Hall and of the Ohio State STAR (Stress, Trauma And Resilience) Program by serving as a lead sponsor for the Faces of Resilience event for many years. It has been an honor for us to have George as one of our leaders, and it seems only fitting that he has stepped up as our first $1 million dollar donor to the Center for Psychiatry and Resilience.

We are most grateful for George’s support and leadership!
Like so many others, Barbara has witnessed people in her life struggle with trauma and mental illness. Through her career and own personal journey, Barbara has remained committed to understanding, experiencing and supporting mental health and wellness.

Her desire to make a difference in the lives of others and foster innovation and excellence in the fields of mental health and addiction services led Barbara to include Psychiatry Center of Excellence in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health in her estate plans.

Barbara is also committed to the important work the STAR Program does to support faculty, staff, students and the community, and supports the program through her generous sponsorship of the annual Faces of Resilience event.

Barbara believes “Ohio State is an enormous engine for innovation, growth, research and aid in our community. My vision and goal is to have as large an impact as I can possibly have in helping support the STAR Program and Psychiatry Center of Excellence achieve its goal of bringing new, innovative treatments to those living with mental illness here in central Ohio and beyond.”

Thank you, Barbara, for your generosity and legacy commitment to advancing mental and behavioral health research, education and patient care at Ohio State.
The Ohio State Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health and Harding Hospital is beyond grateful to Jeff and Donna Heck, their family, friends and 33 Forever for their generosity and advocacy around suicide prevention and mental health.

Earlier this year, 33 Forever, founded in 2019 after the suicide death of their daughter/stepdaughter/sibling/friend Danielle “Dani” Leedy, established the Behavioral Health Immediate Care (BHIC) and 33 Forever Endowed Fund to provide operational support for the BHIC program in Ohio State’s Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health. The nonprofit’s mission is to raise awareness, empower and comfort those struggling with depression, anxiety, low self-worth and suicidal thoughts. Her parents believe this fund is “Dani’s vision coming to life; we couldn’t be prouder.”

BHIC is the only program of its kind in central Ohio and a rarity in the nation. It ensures access to follow-up care in seven days for patients after an inpatient mental health stay at Ohio State Harding Hospital. BHIC also provides an alternative to the emergency department for patients with urgent mental health care needs.

Proceeds from the 2021 Faces of Resilience event will support the Ohio State STAR Program and The Center for Psychiatry and Resilience.

The STAR Program was founded in 2009 and provides education and clinical services to health care professionals, first responders and trauma survivors throughout the community. The program operates the STAR Trauma Recovery Center, which provides clinical services and case management support for victims of crime and trauma.

The Center for Psychiatry and Resilience is bringing together the country’s top researchers to address the growing suicide and addiction epidemics by developing innovative treatments that are resilience-based and focus on early intervention. The center will be community-facing and will collaborate with other centers around the state with a shared goal of building more resilient individuals, families and communities in Ohio and around the world.
